Monheim Triennale

June 30th – July 4th 2021

Monheim Triennale 2021 – advance booking starts today

The new year has begun and so has our advance ticket sale for the first edition of the Monheim Triennale. After the Corona-related postponement, both the new date and the line-up for an unforgettable festival experience have been announced. 16 artists are invited to develop their own projects, which they will perform in various constellations from June 30th to July 4th.

In December our exclusive advance ticket sales for Monheim residents started. Shortly afterwards, our limited Early Bird tickets were already sold out which allows us to look forward to the new year with confidence and joy.

Our regular advance ticket sale is now open with a limited number of Early Bee tickets for € 138 / € 69 (conc.). From April 5th, a Bumble Bee ticket will be available for € 158 / € 79 (conc.). A festival ticket grants access to all concerts of the Monheim Triennale and is available at our ticket shop.

We all have been longing for the new year. The days are getting longer again and the Corona vaccine is there.

"We expect to be able to host the festival without any massive restrictions. However, should there be any unexpected complications, we will still offer a full festival programme. The performances will definitely go ahead," promises festival director Reiner Michalke.

Naturally, all tickets that were purchased last year remain valid. Due to the special circumstances, purchased festival or day tickets can be returned at any time and without stating a reason – with a full refund of the purchase price. Current ticket prices will apply for any new ticket purchases.

We wish you a peaceful, healthy start of the new year – and hope to see you all at an unforgettable first edition of the Triennale in summer!
