Monheim Triennale announces next "Signature" programme

Robert Landfermann "Rhenus"

with Robert Landfermann, Sebastian Gille, Percy Pursglove, Elias Stemeseder, Jozef Dumoulin, Kathrin Pechlof, Jonas Burgwinkel and Christian Lillinger

Robert Landfermann is one of 18 artists invited to develop a "signature" project for the upcoming Monheim Triennial (June 22-26, 2022). His work for Monheim is entitled "Rhenus" - and thus a reference to a constant in his life's journey: the Rhine.

Landfermann was born in Oberwinter - 150 meters linear distance from the Rhine - went to high school on a Rhine river island before he moved further downstream to Cologne where he matured as musician.

One of the most sought-after and awarded bassists of his generation, Robert Landferman "puts it all together with the "Rhenus" project," writes Christian Weidner in his feature for the Monheim Papers.

It is his most extensive project to date, to which he has invited some of his longest standing companions: the drummers Jonas Burgwinkel and Christian Lillinger, who have grown organically with him and yet are so different, plus two musicians from his quintet, the pianist Elias Stemeseder and the saxophonist Sebastian Gille. Also performing are harpist Kathrin Pechlof, in whose trio Landfermann has been playing for ten years now, British trumpeter Percy Pursglove and Belgian Fender Rhodes specialist Jozef Dumoulin.
